

Hope Connections Launches New Young Professionals Group

When volunteer Noel Greene found out that Hope Connections had no young professionals group, she decided to create one herself. With the help of the Hope Connections summer marketing intern, she reached out to numerous organizations in the area to spread the word about our new Young Professionals group. Now, the Hope Connections Young Professionals group is in full swing, with a happy hour launch party scheduled for _____.

The Hope Connections Young Professionals group plans and holds events to network with and attract other young professionals in the Greater Washington, D.C. area. The group consists of individuals who are engaged in having fun, networking, and raising awareness of Hope Connections by getting others involved and volunteering themselves. The Young Professionals group will host monthly networking events, like the shop hop planned for the breast cancer awareness month of October. For the coming months, the group has tons of events in the works, including dinners, concerts, a presidential debate viewing party, “Date for a Cure,” and movie events. The Young Professionals group also plans to hold an after-party for the annual Celebration of Hope Gala in March.

Our Hope Connections Young Professionals group is perfect for anyone who wants to network, volunteer, and support a good cause – all at the same time. Become a member now by contacting Noel Greene at nfgreene@gmail.com, and be sure to like us on Facebook and join our group on LinkedIn. And don’t forget to come out to our Hope Connections Young Professionals group launch party on _____. A percentage of the profits will go towards supporting Hope Connections’ free programs of emotional support, education, wellness, and hope.
